The School Excellence Framework – Part 1

We have had a preliminary self-assessment of our school's outcomes against the School Excellence Framework (Google it for a quick pathway). During Term 2, the Executive will be discussing elements of one domain in the framework with a view to implementing changes that will facilitate our progression in the continuum – delivering to sustaining and growing and then to excelling. We are starting with what we see as the most important domain – Learning. On the face of it, High would claim to be fulfilling the excellence requirements of that global assessment.

However, when we try to make such assessment of our culture visible, we need to demonstrate how elements of learning culture are measured. There are five elements to be assessed against that standard within the learning domain.

Learning Culture. "In schools that excel, school culture demonstrates the building of educational aspiration and ongoing improvement across its community. Students take responsibility for their ongoing learning." (We rated ourselves as sustaining and growing). We haven't demonstrated yet how there is a school-wide collective responsibility for student learning and success, with high levels of student, staff and community engagement. We will have to make relationships and how they work more visible and show how collective responsibility for learning and student engagement is a school-wide concern.

Wellbeing "In schools that excel, there is a strategic and planned approach to support the cognitive, emotional, social, physical and spiritual wellbeing of all students." (We rated ourselves as delivering). We have many structures in place to support our students in all their endeavours. We have teams of teachers, pull-out programs, an educational philosophy with two compatible implementation models and a really wide range of student achievements. We are hard markers and need to find ways to measure improvement in individual and collective wellbeing. Also, judging the effective use of expertise and resources is difficult.

Curriculum and Learning "In schools that excel, an integrated approach to quality teaching, curriculum planning and delivery and assessment, promotes learning excellence and responsiveness in meeting the learning needs of all students." (We rated ourselves as sustaining and growing). It is difficult to quantify effectiveness in the development of knowledge, understanding and skills in all students – a rigorous test indeed. Using evidenced-based teaching practices with known effect sizes in research, would give us greater confidence that all students were benefitting from our practices.

Assessment and Reporting "In schools that excel, consistent, school-wide practices for assessment and reporting are used to monitor, plan and report on student learning across the curriculum." (We rated ourselves as sustaining and growing). We felt strong on this element but measuring student use of reflection on assessment and reporting to plan their learning has not yet become sophisticated or widespread enough in our school. We have embedded practices to engage parents and help them understand the learning progress of their sons but more support strategies for parents trying to help their children learn need to be communicated. We hope that our PEWCC skills reporting, commencing in Year 7, will help to start a stronger conversation with parents about learning.

Student Performance Measures "In schools that excel, students consistently perform at high levels on external and internal performance measures." (We rated ourselves as excelling). Our boys perform at high levels in HSC tests and there are strong value added results overall. The equity groups performance is very close to the performance of all students in the school. We still have work to do to reach our student growth targets in the Junior School but overall this element is strong for us.

[As we develop our approaches to the learning domain in term 2 and beyond, we would appreciate comments or feedback from parents about our School Plan and how it is working when tested by the School Excellence Framework. Please email any thoughts to principal@sbhs.nsw.edu.au]

Sydney Boys Team Travel Fund – ASF

We have a new Australian Sports Foundation Project – the team travel fund. The idea is to defray some of the costs of our extensive sporting travel costs – to Armidale, Melbourne, Wingham, Canberra, Taree, Grafton, Terrigal or the Gold Coast. If your son represents the school in any sport and is likely to 'go on the road' a contribution to this Fund would be very worthwhile. We invite parents, Old Boys and friends of High who have an interest in sport and would like to give back something to help our boys experience the fun of sporting trips while they are at school. There are now 14 separate projects to choose from at the Australian Sports Foundation – Sydney Boys High Project. Can you spare $100 to help out a sport team?

The Record

Captains of summer sports teams have a responsibility to prepare a short report about the season their team had. A focus on the positives is appreciated and also highlighting any good individual performances. Reports should be submitted electronically to Ms May. One enduring feature about The Record is the pleasure gained by Old Boys returning after 30 or 50 years who relive moments of their teenage years through the photographs, names and summaries preserved in The Record. Co-curricular activities need to submit reports also. Supporters with good action photographs are asked to email them as attachments to Ms May who might be able to use any interesting ones in The Record.

MUSIC NOTES

Kai Matsumoto (Strings & Orchestra Prefect)

Looking back as a music prefect in my last year of school, I can honestly say that my time at Sydney High would have been very different if it wasn't for the awesome music program here. It has been an incredibly enriching and exciting experience for me and is a credit to the many teachers, parents, tutors and conductors who help make the music program as great as it is today.

I had been playing some piano prior to high school, but the real story began when I picked up the cello in Year 7 because it "sounded nice". Despite never having played a string instrument before, I started off in the Junior String Ensemble (Year 7), played in the Philharmonic Orchestra (Year 8), before moving up into the Symphony Orchestra (Year 8) and the Senior String Ensemble (Year 9). I was a regular participant in the school's Chamber Choir and undertook music as an elective subject in Years 9 and 10. I also attended the annual music camps. I have fond memories of all of these, and they were both enormously fun and very helpful in developing me as a musician. The highlights would have to be performing with the Senior Strings Ensemble at a Charity Gala Ball for the Sir Roden Cutler Foundation at Government House, and competing in the Sydney Eisteddfod where we performed the "Overture to Ruslan and Ludmilla".

Looking back, I am grateful for the many opportunities that were presented in the music program at Sydney High, and I am so glad that I was able to take on some of those opportunities. The friends I have made through music, the skills I have learnt from playing solo and in ensemble, and the memories I have made through the music program are very precious to me, and something I will cherish for years to come. I would encourage everyone to try something new and pick up an instrument, regardless of what your goals are or why you want to play. You never know where you might end up with music or who you'll meet, and learning to appreciate and understand music is a skill that will stay with you for the rest of your life, because music is a universal language like no other.

Scots Easter Rugby 7s Tournament

Walking into the Scots ground with tents set up, a stadium-sized screen and with teams all the way from New Zealand was an exhilarating moment.

Our twelve boys knew we were in for a rough day, going up against boys much bigger and faster than ourselves. Yet, when we were called to each game we ran on the field ready to show the hours of training we had sacrificed for this day. We were outrun and knocked around at times, suffering injuries such as Daniel Hamilton's dislocated shoulder, yet what we took away from that day was an experience that we can carry into this season and a memory that will last a lifetime.

We played three teams; Riverview (overall runners-up), Lloyd McDermott Rugby Development Team, and Hunter Valley Grammar.

After each match, we would walk off the field, have some food and water, and prepare for the next game with heads held high. Every boy put limbs on the line for the person next to him until the final whistle was blown, and did all that could be asked of us in the name of the mighty blue and brown jersey.

We wish to thank Bruce for taping and strapping, Sam for co-coaching and Kodie for making a great bunch of boys come together at training.
