

From the Principal High Talent

Our open basketball team has again qualified for the last 16 in the CHS Knockout Competition. Solid team effort, boys! Congratulations to Marcus Plataniotis (12F) and Thomas Nimac (12E) who were selected in the Combined GPS football team to play in the CIS Championships next week. Thomas Shortridge was representing NSW in the Secondary Schools Debating Team at the National Schools Championships. Well done, Thomas!

New Online Payment Portal

In response to repeated requests from the SBHS P&C, we have set up a prototype online payment system via the parent portal. Thanks to the design work of David Isaacs and the complex data supplied by Sharon Kearns, a selected list of payment items is now available online. They include: Winter Sport Co-payments; Weights until 27 May; Co-Curricular Co-Payments for: Chess; High Resolves; Music Ensemble Programs; Theatre Sports and Cadets. Also, there will be a link to Gifts/Donations at the Foundation's online gifting system.

Payment Trial Instructions

The school is operating an online payment trial. During the trial parents can pay invoices for Co-Curricular and Sport Co-Payments online using a credit card. You can access the payment portal using the new [$] icon on the navigation menu of the school's website, by selecting the Payment Portal link in the Parent Portal or by visiting the portal at <https://pay.sbhs.net.au>

The payment portal operates like an online store, allowing you to browse a categorised list of payments, pick an item to pay for, add it to your basket and then checkout to pay using Visa or MasterCard.

Before making a payment, you must tell the payment system who you are paying for. We can identify students using their student ID number, your email address (as provided to the school) or your parent portal login.

You can refer to your current statement of account sent by mail to identify which payments are outstanding for your son. Please ensure what you are paying for corresponds to what has been invoiced.

During the trial, payments for Winter Sport 2016 co-payments and invoiced Co-Curricular co-payments will be taken.

The payment portal can also link you through to the school's online gifting systems operated by the Sydney High School Foundation and the Australian Sports Foundation.

When you complete an order, please note:

- You will be invited to complete a short survey on the experience and to identify other classes of payments you would find useful to make online
- Payments are manually verified before your credit card is charged. Therefore, no processing will take place on weekends or school holidays
- You will receive email confirmation when your payment is received and again once your credit card has been charged

International Day Against Homophobia and Transphobia

At our special assembly to mark the occasion, Justice Michael Kirby spoke passionately about the need to end discrimination in society and for people to get used to knowing LGBTI people. He outlined the plight of Aboriginals, Chinese and women through our history and related his own education at school where the topic of sexual identity was never discussed. He urged our boys in privileged positions in public education, in a selective and diverse school, to take the lead and end discrimination generally and end it against gay and lesbian people specifically. Raymond Roca (SHS 2007) spoke about his time at school where campaigns against bullying and discrimination were working in a physical sense but psychological discrimination still precluded boys from coming out. He praised the growth he saw in our High culture that could discuss the issue openly at a school assembly.

Max Koslowski exhorted the assembly to put school policy into practice. He challenged the boys to go beyond lip service to the idea of respectful relationships but to modify their words and deeds to make them a reality in our school so that all boys can feel safe and supported by our culture. My speech to the assembly is printed below:

Special Guests Hon Justice Michael Kirby and Raymond Roca (SHS 2007) staff, students, I welcome you to our special assembly to acknowledge the International Day Against Homophobia and Transphobia. 'Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.' In all cultures, spiritual teachings, philosophies and faiths there is a version of this fundamental expression of human worth and dignity. Humans desire respectful relationships with one another. Regrettably, too many people don't self-edit before they say or do things that have negative effects on others, reducing the feelings of self-worth and dignity in those others.

Homophobia is 'a useful term of social description for everyday tension about sexual identity that is widespread among heterosexuals'. Not everyone who is homophobic engages in discriminatory behaviour towards gay and lesbian individuals. However, people passively still contribute to a general social attitude of intolerance towards them, principally by not confronting those who are discriminatory.

Michael Hood and Clive Hamilton in a 2005 paper entitled 'Mapping Homophobia in Australia' used a Ray Morgan database of c.25,000 respondents aged 14 years and older. In the study homophobia was identified with those who believe homosexuality is immoral. Their findings were that more than 35% of the population believe that homosexuality is immoral. On gender lines 42% of men and 27% of women hold this view. Boys aged 14-17 are more likely to be homophobic than young adults 18-25. Homophobic attitudes are linked to levels of education – 25% of those tertiary educated were homophobic, compared to 40-50% of those who didn't complete high school. Australians over 65 are more homophobic (53%).

The problem with homophobia is that it is unreasoning. When attitudes are based in beliefs they are difficult to modify. In places like schools, homophobic attitudes lead to displays of exaggerated macho behaviour and, more insidiously, to stigmatising heterosexual peers, who are accused of having 'gay characteristics'. At High we have an anonymous reporting process to uncover the incidence of such practices in our community. I urge more boys to use this facility. It is so important for us to become self-editors in our discourse whenever we contemplate saying something personal about another.

Schools and workplaces can be distressing for gay and lesbian individuals. They can suffer stress when hiding their sexuality for fear of the consequences of being found out. For those courageous enough to declare their sexuality, their subsequent treatment by peers can lead to depression and suicide ideation.

In a sample of 900, Flood & Hamilton found that 59% of gay and lesbian respondents in workplaces had experienced harassment or prejudicial treatment. In schools, Same Sex Attracted Youth are six times more likely to attempt suicide than the population as a whole. Discrimination, victimisation or violence was experienced by 81% of boys at school. The perpetrators were mainly other students (59%) or even friends (10%). These are alarming findings.

At High we have a policy declaring a discrimination free environment. However, to make a policy work we have to change beliefs. All of us are being asked to question ourselves as to why we feel it is OK to call someone a 'poof' or describe a behaviour - 'that's so gay'. We need to change behaviours. First, we must be more sensitive about what we say and to whom we say it. Second, we must realise that talking about sexual diversity is not promoting homosexuality. Third, we must broaden our ideas about respecting diversity in general.

Two thirds of our society reject the view that homosexuality is immoral. Gradually, this critical mass will grow larger. It is up to us to help accelerate that process. We can all do so by being mindful of what we say and do. It starts with our individual discourse. 'A stone thrown and a word spoken cannot be recalled'. Try not to use wounding words.

As a school community we can model respectful, inclusive relationships in public assemblies such as this one. We can have reporting structures and peer mediation processes. We can punish overt acts and social media slurs. For beliefs to alter we need to persuade our community to honour essential human dignity. It is unacceptable for anyone's unreasoned attitudes to be allowed to inflict harm on someone else.

Debating

After many weeks of trials and much deliberation, I am finally able to announce the GPS teams for 2016. Congratulations to the boys who made teams and commiserations to those who did not. The competition is really stiff this year and although that makes us excited that we will have a great season, I know it means some of you will be disappointed. The key message is to keep focussed during coaching and try again next year. Some of our best debaters in the Senior School did not make Junior teams.

Re-organising Fiction into Genre – New Signs Now Up and Genre Competition

Our wonderful library staff and our equally wonderful library monitors have performed miracles with our fiction collection to re-organise, re-tag individual books in many cases, re-sticker and re-cover and now create new signage for this quite big undertaking.

The new genre signs for our fiction collection are now going up. Fiction is still alphabetically organised within genre so favourite author's books will still be all together. Our boys are now encouraged to try out the new genre organisation. At the end of Term 3 we will survey our readers to find out what they like and do not like about the genre organisation of our library. In the long run we think it will be easier for you to find your next book to read. Short lessons might be needed in wide reading time to show you how to search the Oliver Library Catalogue to find books.

We will organise a genre competition for fun to see what the boys know about literary genre. This will be held at the end of this term. Hint – read Wikipedia on genre. The competition will include musical and film genre.

A Short Guide to Using the New Library

- There will be a sign hung above each genre for easy location
- Each row of the fiction section will have a A4 size sign showing the list of genres available ranging from science fiction to action to adventure and so on
- Each of these genres will have a different coloured dot/picture next to it. This dot/picture will also appear on the spine of the book of that genre
- Within each genre, the books are sorted A-Z according to author name
- Enjoy your book!

Richard Ding our Library Prefect and Historical Fiction – Genre Organisation

I asked Richard to tell me honestly what he thought of Genre Organisation and this is what he wrote:

I strongly urge students to read more, especially those in the Junior years. From personal experience, you tend to have less and less time to read for pleasure as you move towards Year 12 and the demands of the HSC. So savour the days of your youth and try to resist the shining allure of your electronic devices – get your nose stuck in an actual physical book from the library. Happy Reading!!

Congratulations to Sydney Boys High School Students: Thomas Nimac and Marcus Plataniotis

Thomas Nimac and Marcus Plataniotis from our 1st XI Football team have been selected to represent the school in the Combined GPS Football Team. This is a huge honour for these boys. We have not had players represent the 1st GPS Team for a long time. They will be playing in the Combined Independent Schools Secondary (Boys) Football Championships at NSW Football Valentine Park, Glenwood from 23 – 24 May 2016. Well done and good luck!!

The Mahjong Club

The SBHS Mahjong Club is a recent addition to High's list of SRO's (Student Run Organisations) formed only in the later weeks of Term 1.

Since then, the Club has grown significantly, with an average of 20 members attending each of the meetings.

Last week, we commenced High's first ever Mahjong Competition, evidence of the breadth of opportunities available for students to engage in at High. It was a momentous occasion; one I did not envision would ever happen when I entered the school in Year 7 back in 2011. The competition will span over the whole term, each week during Friday lunch times in Room 214. The prize will be a JB-Hi-Fi voucher awarded to the person/team with the highest total point score. I urge all students interested to come and spectate the games, in the process, learning the rules and the skills of the game.

May the odds forever be in your favour.

MIC of Football Report

Shore are the defending GPS premiers with many of their players back from last season. Again we had many players unavailable and the score line does not indicate the competitiveness of our 1st XI. When we have our full team back on deck we will have more structure at the back allowing our centre and forwards to push forward.

Rahul Prabhu for the 2nd XI against Shore

The U16s have shown a remarkable improvement over the last few weeks and they are close to their winning formula from 2015.

Patrick Huang for the 15As against Shore

It is great to see the U15s being competitive as it shows with the training and hard work we do we can improve our performances in just a couple of years. The U14s continue to show a lot of promise. I believe once they get that first win, this will have a roll-on effect and give the boys the confidence they need. The U13s need to look at our current U15s and see the improvements they have made and to continue on and trust what the coaches are teaching them.

Team of the Week 14s

Walking onto the field against Newington C's we were determined to get a win for our injured star forward Khalil Youssef and our injured coach Cheyne Whitelaw, who both made a big effort to be there and show their support. We got an early try scored by Edward Yoon. From then onwards we had momentum and we did not squander it and as a result we lead at half time 34-0. Through great support play, we were able to score another 4 tries in the second half and finished with the score line of 62-7. Congratulations to our winger Arnav Sojan for scoring the first try of his career and to our fullback William Kim for his excellent performance, scoring 5 tries making him the top try and point scorer in our team. Great work boys!

High vs Newington – Round 1

The first round of the official GPS season saw us face Newington College, however, our team was unfortunately missing players recovering from injury following the Armidale exchange. This included our high impact centre Anthony Xiao, leaving David Kim to gladly fill the void, confidently moving from open side flanker to a power position in the back line.

Our competition was well matched, with the match's first points being scored in a penalty goal against us. The team's newfound determination shone through and we took this as an indicator of their inability to break our resilient defence. We soon found ourselves back in their half, looking for an opportunity to score. Unfortunately, our first lineout was executed poorly, stripping us of vital possession and field position.

Newington increased their second half lead with another penalty goal to put us at a 6-0 deficit. Our defence remained uncompromising, with remarkable aggression and determination seen through Elliot Love, Daniel Zhang and especially Alex Liang. However, Anthony Xiao's explosive offense could not be replicated, translating into a disappointing loss to Newington.

Despite this, our progress made through the pre-season will not be forgotten and we will not let this loss define our season. We interpret this as a remarkable performance from Sydney High, being the first time the 1st XV has left a team-try less in an official GPS fixture since 2011. We can and will only look forward to the rest of the season.
