

From the Principal

Dr Jaggar is on Long Service Leave and it is my privilege to be School Principal in his absence.

High Talent

It was my pleasure to watch the Year 12 Eastside team win the Eastside Debating Competition on Friday evening. Congratulations to them.

As many of you would have heard, ex pupil Daniel Arzani, has been selected to represent Australia at the 2018 FIFA World Cup in Russia. He is the youngest ever player selected to join the Socceroos. In 2013, Daniel left Sydney Boys High to attend the elite sports academy Australian Institute of Sport (AIS) in Canberra. In a recent media interview, his father cited a conversation with Dr Jaggar where he said Daniel's two goals were to wear the green and gold for Football Australia and to become a neurosurgeon. Dr Jaggar's sagely advice to concentrate on one or the other has paid off indeed. We will definitely be watching and cheering Daniel's progress at the World Cup.

Music Camp Concert

I was trying to think of superlatives to describe the music camp concert on Wednesday and I couldn't think of one that was suitably apt. To see the students perform the musical pieces that they had been working on during the camp was a real privilege. To see the talent of the boys – many of whom were obviously playing with very little sleep over the last few days, was uplifting. The finale which comprised all 170 students and Ms Kim playing Baba Yetu left me speechless. A huge thanks is owed to the coaches and most of all to Ms Kim and Ms Miller who have put endless hours of time and energy into the planning and the smooth running of the camp.

Year 10 Reports

Last weekend I read all the Year 10 reports. Please remember that the report is much more than a series of grades and rank orders. I encourage you to take the time to read the report very carefully with your son. Your son should write down a list of targets for improvement so that he can either keep up his excellent performance or show an improvement in semester two.

This is the first senior school report received by your son and so it is very important that he is honing the work and study habits that are required for future academic success.

Parents should be aware that there are changes to the way the rank order is calculated in Year 10. HDs (6 points) and credits (3 points) etc...are no longer added together to form the scores on which the rank order is based. We use individual marks supplied by teachers. We calculate ATAR equivalent scores for those marks based on twelve units (six subjects). PE is not included in the calculations as it is a practical course only in Year 10. PASS elective scores are counted. Rank order variations can be large between Years 9 and 10 for these and other reasons. For example, boys take on additional electives which do not have to include history or geography. Sixty + boys are attempting stage 6 courses as accelerated students and they are assessed on stage 6 criteria which are more rigorous. Sometimes they spend more time than they should on their accelerated course and get their time management out of balance. Some stage 5 electives like commerce, robotics and film making are infused with stage 6 concepts and content. The online elective can only be calculated as the average of the rest of the scores because it is a mastery-based elective. That calculation may lower a student's rank. Science is delivered in a series of modules – chemistry, biology and physics. Some boys are much more engaged with one science module rather than another.

Regrettably, some boys switch off in subjects they are not planning to pursue in Year 11. These subjects can be electives that they just picked for enjoyment because they had already decided on their Year 11 courses. Please bear in mind the possible impacts on ranking in the cohort of these changed contexts when discussing the report with your son. Quiz him about his three electives and how he is engaging with them. Out of respect for his teacher and the other students in his class, your son should focus in every classroom, every day. Please encourage him to take all his subjects seriously until the end of Year 10.

2018 Sorry Day Speech

On Monday we held our fifth Sorry Day assembly. My speech is printed below.

Today we hold our Sorry Day Assembly to mark ten years since PM Rudd's Apology to the Stolen Generations. It's our fifth Sorry Day Assembly at Sydney Boys High School.

At his recent Sydney Writers Festival appearance, two times Miles Franklin winner Kim Scott, spoke about the 'deeply qualified and conditional sorry of PM Rudd'. It was an apology, which only said sorry for the Stolen Generations – just one of the injustices experienced by Indigenous Australians. Furthermore, he said that by dwelling too much on sorry we are in danger of focussing on guilt and victimhood instead of addressing power and agency. He asked us to consider how we will ever move forward as a nation if we are still at the sorry stage.

So today I will not be dwelling on the many, many wrong things that have been experienced by the indigenous peoples of this land. Instead I would like to tell you about just a few of the many, many indigenous and non-indigenous Australians who have performed acts of resilience or who are engaged in efforts to close the gap. These are people who understand that saying sorry is just a small part of a proper apology.

William Barak was the last elder of the Wurundjeri clan. Whilst the government policies of the late nineteenth century forced Indigenous Australians into missions and reserves, he led his people to Coranderrk. Whilst the reserves created a system of dependence and reliance on hand outs, at Coranderrk

Indigenous Australians were successfully growing and selling wheat, hops and crafts to the markets of Melbourne. Barak worked tirelessly to try and keep Coranderrk open in order to show the success that came with affording Aboriginal Australians opportunities to prove their abilities. When his efforts failed, he used his latter years to create unique artworks illustrating traditional indigenous life and first encounters with Europeans.

William Cooper worked tirelessly as an activist most of his life and his legacy is very much alive today. He organised the first ever Day of Mourning protest on 26th January to highlight the inappropriateness of celebrating a national day on a date that also marks the seizure of land and the consequential devastating effects for Indigenous Australians. From its beginning in 1938 with 100 indigenous protesters this movement has grown to thousands of indigenous and non-indigenous people who rallied this year to Change the Date.

Mary Montgomery Bennet spent most of her adult life working with aborigines mainly as an educator for indigenous children who were barred from schools. Her progressive views on the equality of peoples and particularly on the mistreatment of indigenous women put her in conflict with many leading Australians of her time. This was seen most clearly in the 1930s with her continued opposition to A O Neville, so called Chief Protector of Aborigines, whose assimilation policy led directly to the Stolen Generations.

One of the many stolen generations was Lowitja O'Donoghue. She was two when she was removed from her mother and did not see her again until she was 35. O'Donoghue, the first indigenous woman to receive the Order of Australia award spent her life in public affairs on behalf of the welfare of Aboriginal people.

Associate Professor Kelvin Kong is an ear nose and throat consultant who has said that it breaks his heart to see the disparities in health care that exist in Australia. Ear disease is a particularly prevalent problem in Indigenous communities and Dr Kong, who is based in Newcastle, spends many weeks of the year in Broome performing consultations and surgery in the remote Kimberley.

SBHS Old Boy Jack Manning Bancroft is the Founder of AIME, the Australian Indigenous Mentoring Experience. Jack started his mentoring program with 25 Indigenous students in Redfern and now supports 4500 Indigenous high school students across Australia. It's now proven that Indigenous young people who complete the AIME program finish school and transition through to University, employment and further training at almost the same rate as every other Australian.

Khushaal Vyas (class of 2014) who worked with Teela Reid to produce Yindyamarra and Sherman Du (also of class of 2014) who made the documentary that accompanied the project. Yindyamarra takes UNSW Law students out to regional NSW to engage them in volunteering work in the community. By doing so it aims to expose law students to indigenous people and their lives so that they can have a better understanding when they themselves are policy makers.

I encourage you to use this Sorry Day as an opportunity to reflect upon the positive work of these outstanding individuals. It would be remarkable to think that one of you might be a leader in the field of closing the gap. It would be wonderful to think that some of you will actively engage with programs to achieve reconciliation. It would be heartening to think that all of you will become more informed about the current state of affairs for Aboriginal Australians. Then maybe together we can move our nation beyond the sorry stage in the spirit of a true apology.

Meet The Prefect Intern

High Spirit six years ago, were just two words to me, but over time I have come to realise it has moulded me into who I have become. Whether it be on the field, in the boat or exam hall, I know that the Sydney High boys will be there to back me up no matter the circumstances and the school also comes with the benefit of the best scaling NSW has to offer.

As Saxby House Captain it is my role to encourage juniors in trying out new sports and co-curricular activities whilst maintaining a competitive attitude in school sporting carnivals. The house system is particularly important for year 7s as it provides a smoother transition process from primary school to high school in terms of classes as well as assisting in making new friends.

Having represented High in the 1st XV as well as in America for various ensembles I have experienced what it is like to embody High Spirit in various aspects of life. The competitive nature of a High boy starts from the roots of house rivalry, and with the help of the Prefect body, I hope that every High boy sees the invaluable experience of being a part of High Spirit.

Chinese Eisteddfod for Native Speakers

Every year, hundreds of Chinese students, both native and non-native, participate in the Chinese Eisteddfod competition, which highlights the passion and effort of every individual and group. This year at Birrong Boys, approximately 2800 young students competed in a battle of skill and performance, through the subtle art of poetry. For everyone who participated, they were able to gain not only experience but also friendships, while participating in the richness of Chinese culture.

This year we had great success in gaining 1st, 2nd and 3rd places in various age groups. Not only did we gain places, we also had the chance to experience the competitions and we also learnt so many things that would improve our Chinese. The highlight of the competition was the 13-15 years age group competition, we entered a mixed Years 8 and 9 group and a Year 10 group. Our school gained the top two prizes with Year 10 coming 1st and Years 8 and 9 coming 2nd. In individual competitions we also achieved impressive results. Our winners from Year 8, William Wibawa (2nd) and Kevin Wu (4th), Neil Ni (1st), Yifei Wu (1st), Yeongmeng Li (4th), and Harry Wu (4th) from Year 9 and Xi Liu (4th) from Year 10. Congratulations to all our winners. Their results will be published in the Xing Dao Daily Chinese Newspaper and on SBS radio online.

The Cantonese participants also had fierce competitions this year. While Yeongmeng Li, the sole participant from SBHS, didn't receive a prize, he had the opportunity to experience these performances in a different form. He thoroughly enjoyed the experience and had lots of fun.

However, winning does not come easily. It takes months of practice and devotion to be able to perform at such a high level. Our accomplishments were the results of weekly training, in which every member focused on developing their expression, voice projection and performance. In the end all the training sessions were definitely worth the reward.

All our positive experiences and accomplishments were the result of the organisation and effort put in by our teacher, Mrs. Zhang. She dedicated her own time every week to help improve and coach us. In the end she deserves all the credit and our gratitude.

Overall, The National Chinese Eisteddfod is an opportunity for us to learn and enjoy ourselves. We would highly encourage everyone to participate in this event next year.

Yeongmeng Li (9S) and Dalong Xing (9S)

National Chinese Eisteddfod (Year 11 and 12)

On the 26th of May, Sydney Boys High School participated in the National Chinese Eisteddfod and obtained pleasing results, as we do historically. This year has been one of the most rigorous and challenging competitions we've had in a long time competing against remarkable adversaries. Our weekly lunchtime rehearsals and the High Spirit every student displayed allowed us to achieve such exemplary results.

The National Chinese Eisteddfod is a highly competitive statewide poem recital tournament which consists of individual and group competitions. Performances are judged based on the ability to fluently and accurately express the essence of the poem and underlying sentiments of the author. I would like to congratulate Roy Zheng (Year 12) for his excellent performance in the individual component, placing 2nd in the 16-18 year old native speakers group as well as Jeff Ding (Year 11) for his participation in the individual component despite missing out on a trophy.

This year the 16-18 Year old Native Speakers group featured some of the best schools in the state and we were overjoyed with our 2nd place position in such a challenging competition.

This outstanding achievement was not easily accomplished as we have had very limited time to practice together. The team consisted of - Stanley Xu (Year 11), Jeff Ding (Year 11), Jason Wang (12E), Justin Liu (12E), Michael Woo (Year 12R), Oscar Wu (12E), Richard Hu (12E), Roy Zheng (12E) and myself Yueyang Xiao (Year 12R).

All members of our group were heavily hindered by exams and other extracurricular activities as expected of all High students, and as a result we were underprepared in comparison to last year's group. However undeterred by these interferences, we managed to defeat many outstanding opponents such as last year's victors, Strathfield Girls High School and Sydney Girls High School. The boys' indomitable spirit, dedication and ceaseless efforts led us to a well-deserved place on the podium.

It has been an absolute pleasure to practice and compete with all of the boys throughout the year. This could not have been possible without our amazing teacher Ms Zhang, who encouraged and guided us all the way with great patience. From memorising the poem to teaching us how to recite with passionate emotions and displaying expressive body language, Ms Zhang has been an amazing mentor throughout our journey. We thank you for your patience and dedication towards the program for many years as which without your guidance, High would not have achieved such successful results.

For all the boys of which this will be their last Eisteddfod with High, We believe this has been a joyful and memorable experience as it has not only allowed us learn and compete as proud representatives of High, but was also a rare bonding opportunity in the final year of high school. I hope that someday in the future when you look back on your time in High, this has been one of the many delightful highlights in your school career.

Yueyang Xiao (12R), Oscar Wu (12E) and Roy Zheng (12E)

Year 11 Latin Reading Competition, University of Sydney

On Friday 1st of June, Sydney High's Year 11 Latin students attended the Classics NSW annual Latin and Greek Reading Competition held at The University of Sydney. The boys, accompanied by Mr Drivas, arrived at the University in the morning, ready for a day of planned activities and learning. This included our attendance at a lecture presented by one of the postgraduate students of the Department of Classics and Ancient History.

Our three competitors – Ryan Jepson, Jamie Nguyen, and Thomas Schanzer – prepared their pieces of Latin poetry thoroughly and were able to recite their part emphatically. The passage they performed came from Ovid's Metamorphoses and told the story of the grief of the sun-god Phoebus upon the death of his son Phaethon.

All three boys represented the school proudly, with Ryan

Jepson recognized with a Highly Commended certificate and Thomas Schanzer progressing through to the final. We look forward to cheering Thomas on in the final, which will be held next term, and congratulate all boys involved on the day.

Booking interviews with your son's teachers

This year we will again use a web based electronic scheduling system for arranging interviews. This produces better results for all participants, especially more compact time schedules for both parents and teachers. The system works as follows:

- On Tuesday 5 June all parents of boys in Years 9 and 12 were sent by email details of the scheduling system and a unique code to be entered at www.edval.com.au/book.
- This email was sent to the address currently held by the school. If you have not received this email or, if your email address has changed from what had been previously advised to the school, you should notify the school at ptnight@sbhs.nsw.edu.au advising of this. Please indicate your son's name and roll class or date of birth so that the information can be forwarded to you.
- On the Edval website you will see your son's teachers listed and you will be able to select those with whom you require an interview. (If you hover over a teacher's name, the subject involved will be shown.) At the same time you can indicate your availability between 3:00 pm and 7:00 pm.
- Once the majority of parents have requested interviews, the overall schedule will be generated by the school and your individual schedule should be available for you to download and print from two days before the interviews.
- Periods will be shortened on the days of the interviews. Boys from all Years will be dismissed from class at 2:35pm each day. School Special buses will run to normal schedules and there will be supervision available in the Junior Quad of boys waiting for these buses.
- Interviews should not exceed five minutes' duration. If there is insufficient time, a further appointment may be made for a later date, or contact by telephone arranged.

Arrangements for the other two afternoons for Parent Teacher Interviews will be advised via the school website Upcoming Events link after Thursday 14 June.

1st XV Report

In the first competition match of the season our First XV won the toss and played the first half with a howling breeze at their backs. Points were at a premium with any field position surrendered by poor passing, catching or lack of decision making. A 5-5 halftime score-line was going to be tough to defend, knowing that Kings would use the wind to advantage. The match was tight being, decided by a penalty goal with 6 minutes remaining. It was an expensive learning experience for High. Small decisive moments in matches can mean the difference between victory and defeat. Whilst High showed the customary HIGH SPIRIT and defended stoutly it was, in the end, a disappointing result against a Kings side who were there to be beaten. Man of the match was Marcus Borscz who played his best match to date.

2nd XV Report

This side remains undefeated this season. They are playing good rugby with a balance between forward play and attacking flair. Playing this week against Kings 5ths without the regular halves combination posed a problem but Ryan Ho-Shon stepped in like a seasoned professional, organising play and encouraging his teammates. Jack Parsons and James Appleton continue their weekly improvement and are putting pressure on 1st Grade players to perform each week. The experience of John You, Dev Lalwani and hard running of Ramana Paheerathan and Brendan Purdon help greatly when this team is in need of yardage and a cool head.

16As Match Report

This week we went up against KINGS 16B's. At this level there is never an easy match and we are beginning to understand our roles better than ever. This week we toiled without Joshua Zhang, Mitch Sawyer and Jackson Gan, all side-lined with minor injuries. Filling in was Akif Kazi and Joshua Xie. The whole team is grateful for their contributions, without which we would struggle to field a team. Again, we had some spectacular moments and it wasn't until the final 3 minutes that the match slipped away. If winger Sudaraka Pieris holds a difficult pass he scores in the corner and we win the match. Once again, all the boys should be very proud of their performance. Next match against Joeys will hopefully be played a lower level with a full strength team – and that elusive win could come our way

15As Match Report

This week we played a very strong Kings B team and went down 51-7. This grading proved a "bridge too far" for our boys. Kings were too classy, too big and too slippery. Praise must go to William Cui for his attack and Daniel Zheng who provided some great highlights – especially his cover tackles. Daniel, in his first season of rugby, is rapidly improving and could prove a star of the future. Coaches James Tinkner and Jacob Katafono are doing a great job with this team and the players will bounce back against Joeys in two week's time.

Vincent Dorahy

14As Match Report

A stunning 41-19 victory. The crowd went wild. All of our players deserved this win. We are training hard and developing our combinations. We also scored some great tries from set-piece play -thanks to Mr Knox and his words of advice.

Jordan Wong

13As Match Report

Hard running, accurate passing and, of course, consistent tackling proved the answer this week against a very tough running Kings D. The boys are starting to believe in themselves and the number of long runs by Oliver Sun, Anthony Hwang and William Wang was proof of this major improvement in our play. Sean (Jia Herr) Lim, orange headgear flashing across the field, scored two tries and tackled everything that moved. Saxon Gerstl provided the initiative to help us succeed. It was a great victory for our strong team spirit.

Saxon Gerstl (7M)

DAVID CAMPESE HOSTS FINAL TRAINING SESSIONS

Australian rugby great, David Campese handed out jerseys and hosted the final training session of the 1st XV before the 5-8 loss to KINGS. "Too easy Campese delivered some excellent advice but the boys could not believe the resemblance to coach Mick Aldous.

MIC Report

Week one of the GPS season. Some mixed results. Both year 7 and 8 struggled against Kings this week. I think the boys are realizing how competitive these games can get. The senior grades faired a little better but there is still room for improvement. A special mention of our 2ndXI getting a great win over Kings. Well done boys. I would at this stage ask all our players to get more involved with Saturday sport. Please arrive with a MINIMUM of 30 minutes before your game. If you can stay for half the next game, I am sure your friends would appreciate the support. I look forward to seeing more your great results on Saturday 16/6/18.
