Student Absences

Early this week, parents of students with several unexplained whole day and partial absences were called to notify them of the number of incidents requiring action. A large number of parents responded promptly to the reminder which was excellent!

Through this process, our office staff have also found a number of messages within our system where parents texted the school with an explanation for various absences. Parents are reminded that the text messages parents receive notifying them that their son is absent from school on a given day can be responded to directly. This mobile number is not to be used for general communication with the school as these do not feed directly into students' attendance records. If a student is absent from school without advance notification explaining the absence, these text messages are sent with a direct link to that particular absence in our systems that can only be used on that day. For this reason, any absences not directly responding to a text message on any particular day require an email to the office at absences@sbhs.nsw.edu.au. Notification of a student's absence prior to the school day commencing is always preferred to enhance administration within the school, while also allowing teachers to be notified of student numbers attending each lesson in advance.

Year 12 Reports

Next week I will be meeting with Year 12 students to discuss each of their reports. Students will receive an ATAR estimate based on their best 10 units to provide an indication of how they are currently progressing. However, it's important to note that many topics are yet to be examined at this time, meaning that while this is an important yard stick for possible HSC performance, there is plenty of time for students to improve their results. For your own knowledge, these ATAR predictions assume a similar spread of marks to those earned in last year's HSC.

I recommend that all Year 12 students use this report to determine how to maximise their results in the lead up to the HSC. Reflecting on their weekly practices and how they prepare for assessments would maintains consistency with same percentiles.

Subject	HSC Mark	Scaled Mark
English Advanced	91	82
Mathematics General	87	72
Business Studies	89	77

be highly beneficial, as well as setting themselves goals along with a plan of how to get there. It's important to remember that completion of past papers and re-writes of recent tasks following feedback are highly worthwhile incorporating into study routines, given extensive evidence of the positive impact this has on student outcomes. Finding the time each week to undertake study, mixed into a balanced schedule with time for some fun and connection with others such as co-curricular activities and socialising are essential, as is the need for plentiful sleep.

NAPLAN

NATIONAL ASSESSMENT PROGRAM
Literacy and Numeracy

NAPLAN Tests

On another note, next week our Year 7 and 9 students will be completing their NAPLAN tests. I strongly encourage all students to apply themselves diligently to each of these papers to reach their personal best.

For any multiple-choice questions, it's essential that students carefully read each question and think of what is really being asked. They should then consider any potential solutions before even reading the options. Following this, taking time to consider each option is important to determine which is the most correct.

With the writing task, students should take the time to plan their work and keep in mind what makes a quality written response. Consider the audience, how to structure and develop ideas, while being mindful of spelling and punctuation.

These tests are highly beneficial in demonstrating how far students have progressed along the national learning continuum since Year 5 or Year 7 in reading, writing, language conventions (spelling, grammar and punctuation) and numeracy. This information is shared with parents and used by teachers to better understand the literacy and numeracy needs of their students, and for the school to refine teaching and learning programs to address any noticeable deficiencies across the cohort.

Year 9 and Year 12 Parent Teacher Evening

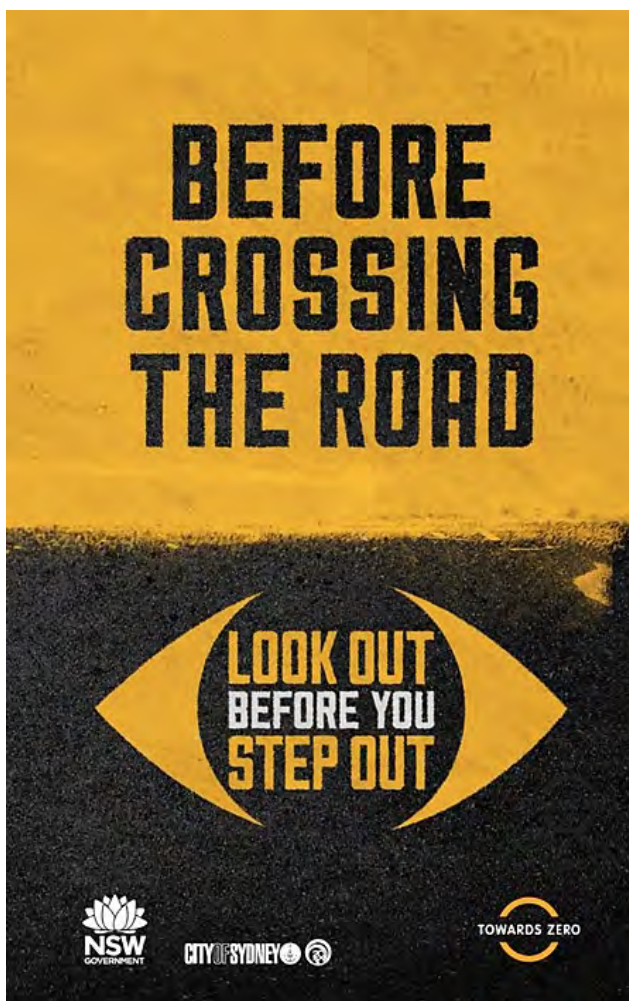

On a final note, Parent Teacher night for Years 9 and 12 is coming up in Week 5 on Monday 23 May. Information on how to register for this will be sent to parents via email early next week. Any parents whose son is in Year 9 or 12 who does not receive an email regarding parent teacher interviews by Wednesday should contact the front office.

Sydney High School Cadet Unit Cadet Reflections on ANZAC Day & NCO Development Day

Moore Park ANZAC DAY Dawn Service

On the 25th of March 2022, at 5:30am, members from the Sydney High School Cadet Unit (SHSCU) and the local community came together to commemorate the ANZAC soldiers past and present at the annual dawn service. This marked the fifth time SHSCU has participated in the Anzac Day Dawn Service at the Moore Park Obelisk. Listening to the empowering speeches made on the day about stories of the heroics of ANZACs were moving and accentuated the importance of commemorating ANZAC Day.

In the lead up to the service, the catafalque party had practised tirelessly, correcting their faults and working towards making their movements sharp. I was fortunate enough to have been selected as a wreath bearer alongside fellow Cadet Corporal Dean Johnsun.

Being a part of the Dawn Service and representing SHSCU was a great honour and experience for me. On behalf of those who had participated in the Catafalque party, I would like to thank the Saving Moore Park Organisation for inviting us to the ANZAC dawn service. After the dawn service, members of the catafalque party participated alongside other members from our Cadet

Unit in the City March as part of ADFC's NSW 1st BDE.

NCO Training Day

The biannual NCO Training day is one mired in tradition. During the latter part of the Term 1 holidays, NCOs both junior and senior gathered at Sydney High to brush up on their leadership abilities. Throughout the day, many senior NCOs imparted their holy wisdom to the unit's future leaders, who took in each lesson with utmost enthusiasm.

However, the day was not all notebooks and PowerPoints, with another tradition including the buying and subsequent consumption of pizza, as well as much needed practice for the then upcoming ANZAC Day Dawn Service catafalque party. I'm sure all will agree that many invaluable lessons were taught and learnt, and I hope that this half yearly tradition will continue to evolve.

Andrews Junior Library

Some of you may already know that I have taken over as the Teacher Librarian in the Andrews Library from Ms Crothers, who is on Long Service Leave for the rest of the year. I look forward to seeing you during recess or Lunch, and years 7 and 8 will be having some library information classes with me in a few weeks' time.

I know Ms Crothers promoted the Premier's Reading Challenge last term, but I wanted to mention it again, and encourage anyone thinking about participating to register as soon as possible. You can log the books that you have read since the end of last year, as well as ones you read from now until August. There is a link on the library homepage (which you can access from your Student Portal). Follow the link and click on this picture when you find it:

I also want to remind students that the library has a VIP Reader programme, and the students who have borrowed the most books will be placed in a draw later in the year to receive book voucher prizes. We want to encourage you to read as much as possible, and what better encouragement than free stuff?

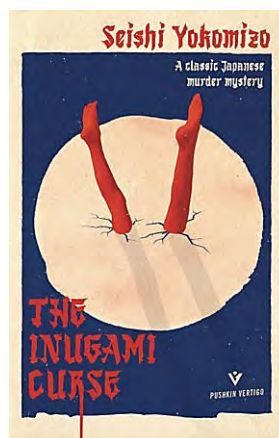

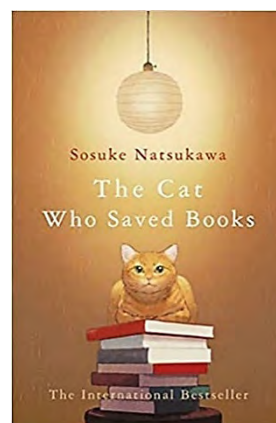

We have a large number of boys volunteer as Library Monitors, and I want to thank everyone for their hard work up to now. I will be emailing all the boys on our list this week or next to see if they are still interested in doing work for us, and getting Award Points, or points for your Duke of Edinburgh scheme, for the rest of the year.

I also wanted to share some books by Japanese authors that I read over the school break, two of which are in the library collection, and two that are coming. The first is

Before the Coffee Gets Cold, set in a café with a seat that allows patrons to go back in time, and which people use to see a lost loved one, to speak to an ex-boyfriend, and, in one case to go forward in time to see her unborn child. It is really a book about the value we place on human relationships, and the joys and sorrows they can bring, but set in a magical realist world.

The Cat Who Saved Books is set in a similar fantasy world, with a high-school boy protagonist drawn out of his shell by a mystical cat who takes him on adventures to save books. He comes to appreciate not only the value of books in life, but also the importance of human connections – something he had forgotten when he withdrew from school and spent all his time in his grandfather's bookshop.

The other two books are crime novels. The first is The Inugami Curse, set in 1940s rural Japan, but reading like an Agatha Christie novel, with a rich patriarch leaving an eccentric will that sets the members of the family against one another, and leading to multiple murders to secure the inheritance. The other, Newcomer, is set in modern-day Tokyo, and is a gentler crime novel, with only one murder, and a lot of tangential red herrings that the detective protagonist solves while connecting with the various members of the local community.

Happy reading!

High Rugby Report

13A's 27-5L

MOTM: Billy Stening

Despite the difficult conditions with heavy rain, the 13A's made it out to Waverly to play their first trial of the season. A special mention to Leo Hang who made his own way from Blacktown leaving well before 6am and walking 3km in the rain. Although it was the first game of rugby for many of the boys, they put up a valiant fight, with special mentions for Billy who scored a great try and Adam for his kicking and composure under pressure. The boys showed a lot of potential for the season ahead which was also great to see. Lots of courage, intent and determination from a set of boys who due to field closures had only had a few outdoor sessions. Well done to Roy too who hurt his foot but still was willing to play on if needed. These are the traits that will guide the boys to success in any future endeavours.

A huge thank you goes out the parents who came and supported, and who provided the boys with croissants and muffins to refuel after the game.

Congratulations to the boys who represented the school for Sydney South East's in the CHS competition at Coff's Harbour this last week, they impressed with their ability and their representation of the school's values.
